FAMILY SCHOOL:

HARTFORD, CONN.

THE former well known, beautiful family mansion of L. L. Silencer, Esq., situated one mile north from the State House, Hartford, Conn., continues to be occupied by the Subscriber for the purpose of a general Family School.

The proximity of his residence to the city, renders it always easy of access, and presents to the family peculiar advantages; while its retired position secures the pupils from dangerous exposure to vicious influences from without.

The extensive farm of forty-five acres attached to the mansion, and the delightful gardens and pleasure grounds surrounding it, render it necessary for the pupils to leave the premises to enjoy the advantages of a rural residence, and the diversion of cheerful and innocent amusements, so necessary to the proper development and culture of the physical powers of boys, to any kind of study and mental exertion to their intellectual advancement.

Each boy is allowed, if he chooses, to cultivate in his hours of recreation, a small plot of ground, in a manner suited to his own taste, and for his own benefit.

In the management and thorough instruction of his pupils, the Subscriber avails himself of such advantages as he may have derived from many years' experience in almost incessant devotion to his profession as an educator of youth.

Impressed with the conviction that any system of education is radically defective, that neglects moral culture, and that so much of mere intellectual acquisition, even competence in the classics, the want of a high sense of honor, combined with gentlemanlike deportment, he deems it of the utmost importance to bear his efforts for the proper training of boys, on the solid foundation of correct moral sentiment, and true notions of propriety in all the conduct of life.

It is intended that the teacher of pupils in the family, shall not secondarily, in being the constant aim of the Subscriber, that this shall be what its name imports, a Family School, composed of so small a number, that the individual wants of the pupils, moral, physical, and intellectual, may be maintained to by the Principal, his Lady and a competent Assistant, with all needed parental kindness and solicitude.

TERMS.

There are two sessions in the year for study of five months each, — June and December being reserved for vacation. The summer term, therefore, commences on the first of July, — that of the winter, on the first of January.

The charge for each pupil, exclusive of vacation, is $200 a year, for board, supervision and tuition, in the common and higher branches of an English education, and in the Greek and Latin languages to any extent desired.

The modern languages are taught by a foreigner, of tried reputation as a successful teacher. For each of these languages, when pursued, there is an extra charge of $25 a year. Drawing, and other ornamental branches of an education, are taught by competent teachers, when requested, at a moderate extra charge of merely the cost to the Subscriber.

Pupils remaining during the vacation, pay $4 a week.

No pupil is allowed for a shorter period than one term, except by previous agreement, for special reasons.

Payment is advanced for the current term, always reported on the pupils' statements.

All engagements for admission of pupils, must be considered positive.

N. B. Boys known to exert a pernicious influence on the morals of their schoolfellows, will not be permitted to remain in the family.

TEACHERS.

T. L. WRIGHT.

Taking the liberty to refer generally to the citizens of Hartford and its vicinity, where the Principal has been known as a Teacher for the last twelve years, he would also avail himself of the prominent kindly attached, of names, particularly among his former and present patrons, the following gentlemen, of whom inquiries may be made:

REV. JOEL HAWES, D. D., REV. T. H. GALLAUDET, ALFRED SMITH, Esq., THOMAS C. PERKINS, Esq., LEWIS WELD, Esq., Principal of Am. Asylum, for the Deaf and Dumb, PROF. CHARLES DAVIES, THOMAS ADDIS EMMET, Esq., 45 William street, SIMON HYDE, 51 Marchant's Exchange,	}	HARTFORD, CONN. WEST POINT, N. Y. NEW YORK.
