Medium Machine-stitched twill-woven black cotton embroidered with white, gold, blue, purple, and orange

Description Black cotton baseball cap commemorating the University of Connecticut 2004 men's basketball national championship. The cap is sewn in six sections, each with thread-covered eyelet holes, and with a stiff brim. The two front sections are stiffened and feature white, gold, and blue embroidery. The front logo consists of an outline of the Alamo over a gold star and the words "20 NCAA 04/ National/ Champions." Under this is embroidered a white and gold basketball with navy blue stars and the word "UCONN" embroidered in navy. The stiff brim of the cap has a gray and red Nike sticker on it, and the edge is piped with gold. To the proper left of the main logo is another embroidered logo featuring an orange basketball, a yellow representation of the Alamo, and white, purple, yellow, and red words: "NCAA/ Final/ Four/ San/ Antonio/ 2004." To the proper right of the main logo is a gold embroidered Nike logo. On the adjustable velcro strap in the back of the cap the words "Remember the Alamo" are woven in gold with a white star to either side.
