Title Teacup and Saucer

Date about 1840

Primary Maker Enoch Wood & Sons

Medium Mechanically-molded buff-colored earthenware with a blue-tinted glaze and underglaze cobalt blue decoration

Description Round teacup and saucer of buff-colored earthenware with a blue-tinted glaze, a type of ceramic known as pearlware. The teacup and saucer have the same transfer-printed pattern and border in a dark underglaze cobalt blue. The pattern, found in the center of each piece, shows three people in a sailboat with a single mast and sail on a body of water. Two more individuals are standing and one is sitting on the shore in the near foreground. Beyond the river, a building sits on a shore at the base of a mountain. A crenellated tower is at the top of the mountain. Below the pattern, is the title "WADSWORTH/ TOWER".

Each piece is also printed with a border of white shells and light blue plants on a field of dark blue. The inside edge of each border is irregular, and the outside edge has a line of evenly spaced small white flowers. Teacup (.a): The teacup sits on a round foot and has a flared rim and molded and applied handle. The pattern is printed twice on opposite sides of the teacup, although the title is missing. The pattern is surrounded by the shell border as described above. The same shell border is printed again along the inside rim of the teacup. All surfaces of the teacup show signs of crazing, and there is one small chip in the rim.

Saucer (.b): The pattern is printed once in the center of the round saucer. This is surrounded by the shell border. All of the surfaces of the saucer show signs of crazing.
