Basic Detail Report

Description View of a monument in the form of an obelisk surmounted by an American eagle with outstretched wings, holding a wreath. The word

"WOOSTER" is inscribed in relief on the lower part of the base. A relief panel above the inscription depicts a man in military uniform falling from a horse, with a cannon at his feet. A second panel incorporates what appear to be Masonic symbols, including Father Time, an all-seeing eye, stars, and columns. Above these panels are the Connecticut State Seal and Masonic calipers and a rule. On the shaft are a sword draped with a sash and oak and laurel or olive branches. A low fence or barrier consisting of stone pillars and iron pipes surrounds the monument. Men and women are on the grassy lawn in the background. Trees are in the distance.
