Date 1862

Primary Maker Hervey Fitts Jacobs

Medium Steel, brass, leather, shagreen (sharkskin), wood

Description Single edged, slightly curved sword with a false edge extending 8 inches from the point. There are two fullers on the blade, the first fuller is wide and shallow and runs from 1/2 inch from the hilt to the point. The second fuller is deep and narrow and begins at the hilt and also goes to the point. The blade of the sword is also slightly wider for 1/3 of the section towards the point. Both sides of the blade are etched with floral designs and war trophies. The back of the blade is engraved with an illegible foreign language, which confirms its foreign manufacture, most likely German. There is a red felt washer at the base of the blade, on the hilt. The hilt of the sword is cast brass and features a pierced guard on the obverse side in a floral design with the reverse side slightly turned up. The quillon terminates at the back of the blade in a scrolling disc finial. The knuckle bow is pierced at the bottom for a sword knot and connects to the pommel, which is of the Phrygian helmet pattern cast with leaf designs along the outside edges. The handle is wood wrapped with light colored shagreen
