Title Map of the Town of Woodbury, Litchfield County, Connecticut, from actual Surveys by L. Fagan

Date 1853

Primary Maker L. Fagan

Medium Lithography; black printer's ink and watercolor on paper

Description Physical and political map of Woodbury, Connecticut, from Bethlehem to the north, Watertown to the east, New Haven County to the south, and Roxbury to the west. The fourteen numbered districts and the Good Hill District of Woodbury are labeled, as are villages and smaller settlements. The entire town has an interior outline of pink, and the districts are outlined in blue or pink, and shaded light pink, pale orange, or are left uncolored. Elevation is denoted with hachure marks; forests with clusters of trees; and bodies of water with blue shading. Buildings are marked and in many cases, labeled. Roads are marked but not labeled. To the right of the town map, there are two smaller inset maps of Hotchkissville and Woodbury that show the streets in greater detail, with building and owners labeled. Around the map there are vignettes showing the residences, churches and industrial buildings of parts of the town of

residence of Reubin H. Hotchkiss in Hotchkissville; the residence of the Honorable Charles B. Phelps in Woodbury; the residence and store of Lewis

Judd, Esq., in Woodbury; the Parsonage House of Reverend Anthony Stoddard in Woodbury; the residence of R.C. Lawson in Woodbury, the town hall in
