Title The "Good Roads" Survey of New England

Date 1905

Primary Maker F. S. Blanchard and Company

Medium Lithography; black and red printer's ink on wove paper, lined with linen, in cloth-bound cardboard covers

Description Folding map of New England and part of eastern New York, showing the "good roads" in the region. Railroads and electric railroad lines are also shown. In Connecticut, the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad is dominant, with Central New England Railroad and Vermont Central Railroad lines also appearing. Post offices are marked with open circles, and state capitals with stars. In the top left corner is a distance table by rail for the region. On the right side are population tables for Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont, listed by town.
