Title South view of the village of Winsted, in Winchester.

Date probably 1836

Primary Maker John Warner Barber

Medium Drawing; ink on paper

Description A view of the village of Winsted in Winchester as seen from a sandy bluff to the south. Evergreen trees can be seen in the foreground and in the distance. A small river, probably the Still River, winds under the bridge. Central to the buildings and stores in this cluster is the Congregational Church. To its right in the background is a clock factory in the factory village of Whitingville.
