

Basic Detail Report

Title Parsons Theatre and Ladies and Gents Restaurant, 66 Prospect Street, Hartford

Date about 1920

Primary Maker Warner Photo Co.

Medium Photography; gelatin silver print on paper

Basic Detail Report

Description Brick theater building with a curved facade, arched windows and a round domed tower. Some windows appear to contain stained glass. A sign on the balustrade that reads "Parsons" is set with electric lights. A round stand in the front entrance also holds electric light bulbs. A sign over the entrance reads: "Parsons Theatre." Theatrical posters are propped against the wall. A striped awning reads: "Ladies and Gents Restaurant." A hanging sign reads: "Cafe / Buck..." Round windows and fire escapes are on the side of the building. Men sit on the steps of two small wooden structures in the alley. Utility poles, trolley poles and street lamps are on the sidewalk. Trolley tracks are in the paved street. Trolley wires are overhead.

Dimensions Primary Dimensions (overall height x width): 9 1/16 x 7 1/2in. (23 x 19cm)