Basic Detail Report

Description Photographs of dolls made by Ivelisse Pabón de Landrón. The photographs were submitted with her application to Year 15 of the Southern

New England Apprenticeship Program. In Year 15 she was the teaching artist in Puerto Rican doll making to apprentice Amanda Mercado. These photos are from Ivelisse Pabón de Landrón's earlier apprenticeship under the Massachusetts Cultural Council Folk Arts Program. (.1) Mounted image depicting the nine steps of 11-year old Jamieette Figueroa making a doll. Text on image collage reads: "Master Artist & Apprentice Doll Making Workshop 2010" and above that is the Soy Negra Productions business card. Inscription on back reads: "MCC - Traditional Apprentice Program – 2010 / Jamieette Figueroa – 11 years old. Apprentice. Traditional Arts. Doll Making. 2010" (.2) Two mounted photographs of Ivelisse Pabón de Landrón using a sewing machine to create clothing for a doll. In one photograph she is arranging lace on a green and white gingham dress. There is a business card mounted on collage that reads: "Soy

Negra Productions / Keep The Dream Alive! / Ivelisse Pabon de Landron / Artist –

Doll Maker – Ancestral Researcher" (.3) Three mounted photographs of Ivelisse Pabón de Landrón stitching clothing onto a doll. One photograph shows a doll before it is dressed. Photographs depict the master artist sewing a dress and headscarf onto the doll's body.
