Description Woman's three-piece dress, consisting of a bodice (.a), skirt (.b), and sash (.c), made of pale gray-green silk. The bodice is styled with a high, round neckline, dropped shoulder, and slightly high, round waistline (measuring about six inches at the side, under the armscye seam). It closes at center front with eleven small, domed buttons covered with matching silk thread in a spiral pattern. Brass hooks and eyes offer further stability of the opening. The fitting is achieved by two six-inch darts on either side of the opening. Around the bodice at shoulder level is a ruffle of self-fabric with pinked edges over a 4 1/4-inch flounce of handmade Brussels lace. The center back of the bodice is decorated with a fan of pleated self-fabric at the waistline. The coat sleeves are trimmed above the wrist openings with three rows of the self-fabric ruffle, and the wrists are trimmed with a one-inch ruffle of Brussels lace. The bodice is lined with plain white cotton. The darts and left side of the opening are boned. The side seams were let out and the waistband extended when the owner wore the dress for her 25th wedding anniversary. The skirt is mostly flat in front, with only one pleat on the right side to balance the skirt opening which is left of center. There is one more pleat over each hip, and the back of the skirt is cartridge-pleated. The skirt is lined with a starched, white, open-weave fabric. The bottom of the skirt is lined for 15 1/4 inches with white glazed cotton; it also shows evidence of having been altered. The back panels of the skirt have been pieced 6 1/4 inches from the top, and there are old stitch marks indicating another alteration. There is an in-seam pocket on the right side. The sash is a 1 1/2-inch-wide belt of self-fabric, with one pleat taken throughout its length, and lined with the stiff fabric like the skirt. At the center back is mounted a double tail, each about ten inches wide and edged with the self-fabric ruffle. Over the tails is a doubled-over, pleated fan of self-fabric.
