

Basic Detail Report

Title Accepted Design Masonic Temple, Hartford, Conn.

Date 1894

Primary Maker Charles Russell Loomis

Medium Drawing; ink and watercolor on wove paper, matted and framed

Description Brick and brownstone freemasonry lodge building occupies a corner lot at the junction of two city streets. The building has closed balustrades, rectangular hood molds, ogee hood molds, dormers, and two-stage corbeling supporting a projecting section. The two columns topped with globes above the porch symbolize King Solomon's Temple. Other Masonic symbols are featured in the stained glass windows.

Dimensions Primary Dimensions (image height x width): 30 x 24 1/2in. (76.2 x 62.2 cm) Frame (height x width): 53 x 36 1/2in. (134.6 x 92.7cm)