Week on 23 November 1942, with Mrs. Armstrong, and Mayor Thomas J.

Spellacy. One photograph shows the visit of Admiral Thomas Hart that includes a trip to Pratt & Whitney, a division of United Aircraft with Lieutenant Commander C. E. Smith, Lieutenant Commander R. W. Oliver, and Horace M.

Horner, Vice President United Aircraft Corporation and general manager of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft. They are seen in a factory looking at machinery, in an office, and at a dinner at the Hartford Club on 26 May 1942 in honor of the admiral.

Guests include the admiral's wife, Caroline Brownson Hart; Alice Mortensen;

Barnard Whelan, Vice-President of United Aircraft, and his wife Blanche; Colonel

George A. Wardinski, Quartermaster general of the State of Connecticut, and his wife Elizabeth; Rear Admiral F. A. Daubin and his wife; Mayor Spellacy and his wife, Elizabeth; Dr. William Lyon Phelps of Yale; Alice Tranberry, a Hartford

Public High School teacher; General Reginald (Rex) B. DeLacour, adjutant general and Chief of Staff of State of Connecticut; and past Hartford Mayor

Walter Batterson. Other subjects include: an elevated view of a dinner on a stage with several tables and decorations with American flags and banners in the background; a dedication ceremony with men in uniform and women seated on a platform; some of the same women standing on a grassy lawn looking at a large object covered with a tarp, with several older men in uniform raising or lowering an American flag; and women in uniform standing at a long table serving baked goods, including cupcakes and donuts, to men in uniform. William H. Mortensen is also shown on a tour of the navy ship Bexar. Images from this visit include a view of the deck with several men in uniform; a uniformed man
