

Title Man's Hat

Date about 1846-1848

Primary Maker Sombrereria Español

Medium Hand-stitched, felted unidentified fur or wool, with tarred fabric, silk grosgrain ribbon, paper, leather, cotton cording, and non-ferrous metal Description Man's top hat from Mexico, with a flat, 3 3/8-inch-wide brim and straight, 5 3/8-inch-high crown. The hat is buff-colored felted fur, with a tarred fabric cover. The cover wraps over the edge of the brim and is tightened by a drawstring within a casing of silk tape. The edge of the felt brim is bound with a buff-colored grosgrain ribbon, as can be seen through a hole in the tarred fabric cover. The hatband is made of four rounds of cording, held in place by narrow bias tapes; the cord is tipped with black metal in a narrow cone shape, headed by a short tuft of twisted dark threads. Only one metal tip remains. There are

Basic Detail Report

interlining.

the crown, suggesting that there was once an ornament attached in each spot.

two oval-shaped indentations, each with two holes, placed one on each side of

The inside has a leather sweatband, 2 3/4 inches wide. The lining is a mediumweight, off-white fabric brocaded with zigzags and floral motifs; there is a paper

Dimensions Primary Dimensions (height x width x depth x diameter of brim): 53

/4 x 13 1/2 x 15 x 3 1/2in. (14.6 x 34.3 x 38.1 x 8.9cm)