Title Railroad Tracks and Trains; Union Station, Hartford, Connecticut

Date 1986

Primary Maker Richard Welling

Medium Photography; color photographs on paper

Description Twenty-four photographs, most relating to the railroad, including several that depict empty tracks, tracks with trains on them, and the decaying metal structures at Union Station in Hartford, Connecticut. In several photographs, the Capitol West building is visible in the background. There are a few abstract photographs of graffiti and rusted metal. Also included are photographs of the United States Coast & Geodetic Survey Bench Mark and a metal sign that reads, "Built by the Boston Bridge Works Inc. 1907." Several photographs depict Hartford buildings, including the Ramada Inn near Union Station and the Statler Hilton near Bushnell Park. There is also a building under construction, covered in plastic sheeting.
