Medium Photography; color slide on plastic in cardboard mount

Description Color mounted slides of views of Seoul, South Korea during the Korean War, 1952-1953. (.153) A close-up view of a temple of worship. The structure has a large wooden overhanging roof and a square base. (.154) A close-up view of the front facade of the Government-General Building in Seoul. The neo-classical style granite building has a rectangular base with a dome in the center. (.155) Four uniformed soldiers at the front gates of the Government-General Building. Two of the soldiers on the left side of the image are next to a military vehicle facing the building. The other two soldiers on the right are closer to the front gate. Looking closely at the front gates, bullet shell marks are seen on the walls. (.156) The area outside of the Government-General Building.
