Basic Detail Report

Title Interview with Joanne S. Faulkner

Date 2005 August 2

Primary Maker Joanne S. Faulkner

Description Oral history interview with Joanne S. Faulkner who was interviewed by Beverly J. Hodgson on August 2, 2005 for the Connecticut Bar Foundation's History of Connecticut Women in the Legal Profession Project. Topics Discussed: - Early Life: Joanne Faulkner was born in 1938 and grew up primarily in Ithaca, New York. She graduated from public high school in Ithaca in 1956 at the top of her class. - College: She attended Nazareth College, a women's college in Rochester, New York, from 1956 to 1960. - Ambition to Become a Lawyer: Someone suggested law to Faulkner due to her enjoyment of debate and argument. - Law School: She chose Cornell Law School in 1960. The Dean of Admissions noted that her high law boards (LSATS) were the only reason she was accepted. She was on the Law Journal as the notes editor and participated in student government as secretary. - Early Job: During college and law school, she worked for Ithaca Savings Bank. - First Legal Job and Move to New York City: Faulkner secured a summer job at Reavis and McGrath, a New York City law firm, through the dean of Cornell Law School. She worked there the year before her last year of law school. Although there were no women in the firm, she was offered a permanent position upon graduation due to her capability, top academic standing, and good work. - Bar Exam: She passed the New York Bar Exam in 1963 and the Connecticut Bar Exam in 1967. She stayed in New York until 1966, got married in 1965, and then moved to New Haven, Connecticut. -

Basic Detail Report

New Haven Legal Assistance: She began working for New Haven Legal Assistance Association. She focused on consumer law, handling cases like landlord-tenant defense and repossessions. She was involved in civil rights litigation in the United States Supreme Court between 1968 and 1974. - Notable Cases: Simmons v. West Haven Housing Authority (1970); Boddie v. Connecticut (1971); and Kokoszka v. Belford (1974). - Private Practice Cases: Faulkner left Legal Aid in 1985 and went into private practice. Connecticut v. Doehr (1991); Heintz v.

Dimensions Duration: 1 Hour, 22 Minutes

Jenkins (1995).