

Basic Detail Report

DAME NATURE is very lavish in the bestowal of rosy cheeks on the country bred girl who is out under the blue dome so large a part of her time, but the fussy old Dame is very neglectful of my lady of the city, so many of whose waking hours are spent under the searching glare of the electric light and whose only bit of sunlight, particularly in winter, is that snatched in a brief round of shopping or a formal drive in the park. Theatre parties and late suppers are not conducive to rosy cheeks, so the skill of the chemist is invoked to supply the deficiency. All the rouges heretofore offered have been so difficult to apply skillfully that only the most expert could use them without detection. Also it is quite obvious that such a work done clumsily is not only vulgar but a source of much embarrassment to the user.

In EGLANTINA the old difficulties have been solved, and we have quite reached perfection in face-blooms. It is in no way an experiment as it has for some time been furnished by subscription to a number of the smart set of London and Paris, and because of its more than enthusiastic reception there, is now being offered in America.

EGLANTINA is a perfectly harmless liquid with the delicate odor of the briar-rose, and it can be applied by the most unskilled so as to produce results most artistic and undetectable.

It is not easily affected by perspiration and yet it can be readily removed if too much has been applied. It does not fill the pores of the skin, but on the contrary, is a stimulus to the healthful action of the tissues and pores. Its qualities are very lasting, and as a few drops only are required for an application, it will prove the most economical face tint procurable.

EGLANTINA and my lady will surely be inseparable from a first acquaintance.

To be had only of the sole makers, EGLANTINA COMPANY, P. O. Box 1173, Hartford, Conn. Price, One Dollar per bottle, sent post free, securely packed in an unlabelled box.

Title Eglantina Co. Advertising Leaflet

Date c. 1902-1926

Primary Maker Eglantina Company

Medium Paper, printed ink

Description A leaflet advertising the Eglantina Co. printed on pink paper. It reads in part, "Eglantina is a perfectly harmless liquid with the delicate odor of the briar-rose, and it can be applied by the most unskilled so as to produce results most artistic and undetectable. / It is not easily affected by perspiration and yet it can be readily removed if too much has been applied. It does not fill the pores of the skin, but on the contrary, is a stimulus to the healthful action of the tissues and pores. Its qualities are very lasting, and as a few drops only are required for an application, it will prove the most economical fact tint procurable."

Basic Detail Report

Dimensions Primary Dimensions (overall height x width): 10 1/8 × 8 1/8in. (25.7 × 20.6cm)