

Basic Detail Report

Title George Heck, Sphinx Temple Band, and a Singer on Stage

Date 1940-1960

Primary Maker Lincoln McGabe

Medium Photography; gelatin silver print on paper

Description A woman in a strapless evening gown stands beside a microphone on a stage. Also on stage are George Heck, the conductor, who stands on a platform, and men in band uniforms, seated in metal folding chairs and holding band instruments, including trombones, trumpets and tubas. A theater curtain is in the background. Electrical outlets and grates, presumably for heating or ventilation are on the edge of the stage. Theater chairs are in the foreground.

Dimensions Primary Dimensions (image height x width): 7 1/2 x 9 3/8in. (19.1 x 23.8cm) Sheet (height x width): 8 1/8 x 10in. (20.6 x 25.4cm)