Title Man's Shoes

Date about 1965

Primary Maker Christopher Battalino

Medium Machine-sewn leather, cotton, rubber, with synthetic fiber shoelaces tipped in plastic and metal grommets

Description Black leather open tab men's shoes, with oval toe and low, stacked heel. The vamp is decoratively seamed following the contour of the outside edge. The tabs, which slope upward in the direction of the ankle, lace with a black synthetic fiber shoelace tipped in plastic through three pairs of punched eyelets, which are reinforced on the back with metal grommets. The tongue is cut one with the vamp. The quarters are lined with gray leather; the vamp is lined with plain-woven cotton. The tongue is lined with fuzzy cotton (or synthetic fiber) material. The sock lining is brown leather with a black leather heel piece. The welted sole is leather stitched to rubber. The top piece of the heel is thick black rubber.
