

Basic Detail Report

Title Sign for Angell's Inn

Date 1808

Primary Maker Richard Angell

Medium Paint on pine board, iron hardware

Description Images: On both sides, an eagle holding a laurel branch and anchor, centered on the signboard. No underlying images. Construction: Single board, hand-sawn to create decorative profile at top only. Applied moldings, mitered in the corners, are nailed to the faces of both sides. No structural frame. Surface:

The eagle is rendered in dark red and white, with at least two paint applications.

Traces of earlier lettering bleed faintly through the white background: a bold

"RA" centered between the two existing lines of text, and yet another version of

"R ANGELL" positioned within scribe lines below the present name. Given the naive quality of this sign painting, the maker may have redone the lettering to adjust and improve spacing of text and image.
