

Basic Detail Report

Title Atlanta, Georgia. As it Appeared on the Entrance of the Union

Army Under Genl. Sherman, Sept. 2d. 1864.

Date 1864

Primary Maker David R. Brown

Medium Lithograph; black and tan printer's inks on wove paper

Description A row of stone commercial buildings lines a city street. On the roof of one building, two men are raising a flag with a light square on a dark field.

Covered wagons drawn by mules are in the street below. On the paved sidewalk in the foreground, two men turn to look at a woman who is accompanied by two soldiers in uniform. An African-American man is leaning on a lamp post at the right. Facing him, an African-American woman wearing an apron over her dress carries a large basket on her head. Soldiers with an American flag march in the background. Other soldiers are on horseback. At the left, a small military band with horns and drums is led by a mounted officer. A flagpole, trees, and the steeples of two churches are in the left background.

Dimensions Primary Dimensions (image height x width): 8 1/2 x 13 3/16in. (21.6 x 33.5cm) Sheet (height x width): 10 13/16 x 14in. (27.5 x 35.6cm)