Description A single place setting consisting of a round, ironstone teacup (.1), saucer (.2), and plate (.3). Each object is decorated with a green, transfer-printed underglaze border titled, "Belmar". The border consists of a scalloped line at the edge of the rim, which connects to swags of flowers. Some of the swags hang down the full width of the rim of the plate; they are made up of three flowers on a vine with various sized leaves. The teacup is decorated with this border circling the rim and sides. It has a molded and applied loop handle that is also decorated with a portion of the green border. The border appears on the rim of both the plate and the saucer. The hanging floral portions of the border on the saucer are more densely printed than on the plate.
