Medium Mold-formed whiteware with a brown glaze and gilding

Description Round, whiteware mug with a brown glaze. The sides of the mug swell briefly just above the foot, then narrow again to form vertical sides. The brown glaze, applied over the white body of the mug, fades from a dark brown at the base to a lighter brown in the middle, then back again to a dark brown at the rim. The handle follows the same pattern of dark, then light, then dark glaze. The only additional ornament on the mug consists of the gilded words "NEW HAVEN GRAYS/ Semper Fidelis/ 1816 [followed by a long, thick gilded line] 1912" printed to the left of the handle. The gilding on the long, thick line has begun to wear off.
