Title Desk and Bookcase

Date 1786-1790

Primary Maker Eliphalet Chapin

Medium Cherry primary wood, white pine and maple secondary wood, glass, brass hardware

Description Scroll-top desk and bookcase. Bookcase has English-style glazed panels with overlapping mitred doors (vertically slanted inner edge), above a narrow bosom drawer. The oxbow lower case has four equivalent size drawers, the top drawer a pullout butler's, or secretary drawer, which pivots forward to reveal the interior. The interior includes drawers and pigeonholes with a double-blocked drawer on the left side. The "balls" pediment features small, carved spheres integrated into carrot-shaped openings. The urn-shaped finials are original; the carved rosettes are appropriate but are later restorations. Design and Construction Details: Quarter columns are assembled from three pieces: a turned capital and base with a fluted column in between. The flutes extend into the capital and base with a clearly visible seam where they are joined.

Backboards are slid into grooves in the case sides and top or bottom.

"Quadrant base" construction of the base. The front ogee feet are joined together at the corners with concealed dovetails (invisible from the outside) and mounted on a large quarter-round horizontal block (quadrant) that is nailed to a 3-sided frame which incorporates the base molding. This frame, in turn, is nailed to the case bottom. The rear feet are supported by a right angle brace with exposed vertical dovetails, visible from the rear, and similarly mounted on a quadrant block. The feet splay (angle outward) by approximately 7°. Condition:

There are various repairs and signs of wear, but, except for the restored upper half of the pediment, the piece is essentially intact. The brasses are replaced but stylistically correct. Please see attached essay by the Chapin authority, Dr.

Thomas P. Kugelman for more information about this piece.
