Description Map of Stonington, Connecticut, from the borough boundary to the north, Samuel Chesebro's land to the east, Stonington Point to the south, and Stonington Harbor to the west. Borough streets are labeled, and buildings are depicted, sometimes with the owner or occupant's name. The map contains numbers from 1-63 that correspond to an enumerated list of subscribers by name, located to the left of the map. Some occupations are also listed. Below the map is a vignette of John F. Trumbull's factory. The cartouche is decorated with the figure of a woman wearing a liberty cap and holding the American flag, and a man, possibly Bacchus, wearing a crown of what appear to be olive leaves, cradling a jug of liquid.
