Medium Engraving; black printer's ink on wove paper

Description Map of Pennsylvania and New Jersey tracing the Battles of Trenton and Princeton, fought by the Continental Army under the command of General George Washington against the British. It extends from Kingstown to the northeast, Cranberry to the east, Bristol to the south, and Newtown to the west.

Double parallel lines show the army's routes, with rectangles marking camps and posts along the way. Symbols for what may be town halls mark the locations of towns and settlements, and closed rectangles are used to denote the presence of dwellings. Elevation is depicted through hachure marks.

Inscriptions on the map explain the notable events in the battles. In the lower left corner of the map is a list of lives lost in the Battle of Princeton, fought on January 3, 1777; in the lower right corner is a list of lives lost in the Battle of Trenton, fought on December 26, 1776.
