Title Artist's Stool

Primary Maker Richard Welling

Medium wood; leather

Description Wood and leather artist's stool. The stool seat of the stool is made of leather which is attached by metal screws to three wood legs. The legs intersect about half way down and are attached together by screws allowing the legs to swivel and the stool to fold vertically. A leather strap and buckle are attached to one leg by a nail which can strap all three legs together. Another leather strap approximately 29 inches long with a looped end extends from the seat.
