Title Map of the Connecticut River Line and its Connections

Date after 1892

Primary Maker Rand Avery Supply Co.

Medium Lithography; black printer's ink on wove paper

Description Map of part of the eastern United States and Canada, depicting parts of Ontario, Quebec, New York, Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. It shows what is referred to as the "Connecticut River Line," which appears to be the various railroad lines that ran north-south along the Connecticut River, including the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad; Boston and Maine; Vermont Valley; Connecticut Valley; and Quebec Central Railroads. The connecting routes in the area are also depicted but are not as prominent. They include the New York, New Haven and Hartford; Central New England; New York Central and Hudson River; Maine Central; Rutland; Central Rutland; Canadian Pacific; and Grand Trunk Railroads. The locations of stations along many, but not all, of the lines shown are also depicted. Physical features include elevation, conveyed with hachure marks, rivers, lakes and islands.
