Description View of three elderly women sitting in a row to the left of a market table on a street corner in France. A fourth woman stands on the far side of the table, which is covered by a tablecloth and has a covered awning over it. There is a metal bucket sitting on the table, to the left of a small rack that appears to be holding two small books. A small chest stands on tall legs in front of the table, by the elderly women. There are several long poles sticking out of the top of the chest, parallel to the ground. They might be paintbrushes. In the background there is an empty street and two tall buildings.
