Medium Drawing; pencil on paper

Description Distant view of Southport, from the south. The large church with the spire is the Congregational Church. The small spire to its left is the Academy, near the large Southport Bank. The small building on the extreme right is a flourmill. Other buildings line the waterfront and are scattered on the hill. The slope at the right is covered with trees. Southport Harbor is in the foreground and the mouth of the Mill River is to the left
