Description Three-story stone warehouse and commercial building at the corner of Ferry Street and Commerce Street. A stenciled sign reads: "E. Gross & / Co. / Cash / Paid for Rags / Rubber / Metals." The brick commercial building at the right has a broken window. A frame building farther down the street has a cellar hatchway. A woman stands in an open door at the far right. A man squats nearby. A handcart is in the dirt street, near the sidewalk. Street signs are on the corner of the stone building and on a derelict light post. A gas light hangs from wires in the foreground. Utility poles and wires run along the street.
