Title Beaded bandolier

Date about 1910-1920

Primary Maker Walter Treadway Huntington

Medium suede, plastic, cotton twill, linen

Description Long slightly curved piece of tan suede bound on the outer edges with tan twill tape and tacked together at the open end to make a continuous band. The center (or top) of the band has a sun-shaped design of pink, green, yellow and red beads sewn on by hand. Emanating from this central design are herringbone-shaped designs in yellow, light blue, green and clear beads, each highlighted with larger beads in red, light blue, and green. The back of the bandolier is faced with white linen. Worn by Walter, Mary and/or Clark Huntington of Windsor, Conn.
