Medium Cast porcelain with a poly-chrome iridescent glaze

Description Oval porcelain pitcher in the shape of a fish, with poly-chrome iridescent glaze. The fat fish faces up, resting on its tail, which is curved out toward fins on the fish's back. The fish has a narrow, open mouth through, which the liquid pours out of the pitcher. The handle is attached to the stomach of the fish. The pitcher is covered with iridescent glazes in dark peach, purple, light yellow, and white, that give the appearance of scales shimmering on the body of the fish.
