Title House for George L. Hunt, 133 Westerly Terrace, Hartford

Date early 20th century

Medium Architectural drawings; black ink and pencil on linen

Description Architectural plans for a two-and-a-half-story, five-ranked, Colonial Revival brick house with dentiled cornice, cornice returns, side-gabled roof, and two-story cross-gable wing with long-slope pitched roof and inset hipped dormers. There are three shed dormers on the facade and two shed dormers on the rear (west) elevation. Each of these has a single 6/6 double-hung window. Fenestration throughout the remainder of the home primarily consists of 6/6 double-hung sash, though other arrangements are present. These include 8/8 double-hung sash, 4/4 double-hung sash, and multi-pane casement windows with rectangular and diamond-pane glazing. There are a pair of multi-pane, quarter-round windows flanking the gable wall chimney on the south (side) elevation, and a three-sided bay window with copper-clad bell-cast roof on the south elevation. A one-story sun porch is also located on the south elevation. This has 6/6 double-hung windows, a dentiled cornice, flat roof, and balustrade along the roofline. The entry has a gabled door surround with wood pilasters, cornice returns, half-round fan, and a wood paneled door. There is a one-story, two-bay, brick and frame garage with a front-facing pitched roof on the south side of the home. This is attached to the house via the long-slope roof of the rear cross-gable ell which transitions into an arched wing wall. The garage walls are brick while the gable ends are frame. The latter are sheathed in wood shingles. It
