Date 1771

Medium Engraving; printer's ink on laid paper Drawing; watercolor on laid paper

Description Chart of the Saybrook sandbar at the mouth of the Connecticut River where it meets the Long Island Sound, with routes around the shoals or sandbars. The banks of the river are dotted with houses and trees, and the governor's house, Hachets Pinte (Hatchett Point) and the "Old Dry Cow" are labeled. Four channels around the shoals are plotted with lines and labeled: the middle, east, west and south. At the far left of the map is Hen and Chickens reef.

Depth measurements of some kind also appear on the map - there are numbers given that are followed by the letter "F," which may denote depth in fathoms, possibly feet. Other numbers, without qualifiers, are also marked, on both the water and shoals. Small "x"s and dots also appear on the shoals, with greater concentration around the edges than in the centers.
