Description Over a printed map of the town of Wethersfield, Connecticut, as it appeared around 1640, additions have been made by hand in black ink and blue crayon, mostly to fill in the western portion of the town. It extends from Hartford to the north, the Connecticut River to the east, Griswoldville to the south, and Stony Ridge to the west. The additions include roads, swamps, and landmarks personal to the maker, and many of them have dates ranging from the 1600s to the 1800s. On the back of the sheet is a hand-drawn map in black ink and blue crayon of the Connecticut River near Wethersfield and the roads around it.
