Description Distant view of a large suspension bridge supported on stone piers.
