BACON ACADEMY, COLCHESTER, CONN.

Litho by D.W. Kellogg & Co. Boston & New York

BACON ACADEMY.

THIS INSTITUTION, which derives its name from the late Pierpont Bacon, who gave his whole Estate, estimated at about $55,000, to endow it, is situated in the village of Colchester, a place, pleasant, remarkably healthy and easy of access.

The government, and instruction, are committed to a Preceptor, one male and two or three female assistants; one of whom is expected to be qualified to teach a female school of a higher grade.

The year is divided into three terms, with three vacations; from the first Thursday in September three weeks, from the first Wednesday in January two weeks, and from the first Wednesday in May, two weeks.

The Price of Tuition is for Latin and Greek, 6 dollars a Term, for Mathematics, Grammar, Geography, and Arithmetic, 4 dollars, and for the elementary English Studies, 3 dollars a Term, with an additional charge of 50 cents for fuel, in each of the terms which include a portion of the winter.

Board including washing and lodging, can be obtained in good families, at from $1.50 to $1.75 per week.

This school, as at present organized, is believed to be well adapted to qualify young men for college, for the ordinary pursuits of life, and especially for the business of instruction.
