Maple Syrup Time In Connecticut
Having grown up picking maple syrup with my father, I hope someone has been turned to the Maple Syrup scene as much as I do. This season truly makes the beginning of the end of the winter season. The snow usually melts in February and around the end of March, and a lovely new season begins. Last year we enjoyed a longer crop despite the heavy snow conditions. Cold nights and light mornings are a requisite in order to make this liquid gold and if Mother Nature has not cooperate it makes a very difficult for even the most efficient producer to make the syrup. After all, you need 40 gallons of maple sap to make 1 gallon of syrup. The more maple trees and the more skilled producers will be maple sugar and maple honey made from it is a welcome addition to many recipes and a special treat when added to a cup of coffee and your child.
Make sure and look for the phone of many of the producers in your state year local products. Each time you buy local, you are helping to preserve Connecticut farms and our amazing landscape. You are an important part of the solution of restoring farmland, circulating the local economy and preserving this time honored tradition of maple syrup in Connecticut. By using this guide, we hope that you will be able to support our CT's maple syrup producers. Please make sure you and about the care and home of operation, so you can experience the process of making fine food. You will not regret it.
