

Basic Detail Report

Title Ye Map of Farmington

Date 1926

Primary Maker Lydia B. Hewes

Medium Drawing; watercolor and ink on wove paper

Description Manuscript map of Farmington, Connecticut, depicting the Farmington and Pequabuck Rivers and the Farmington Canal, the town and its public buildings, and the surrounding area. The railroad station and mail coach road are shown on the left, along with the old Indian burying ground and Round

Basic Detail Report

Hill. Below the town is a cluster of mountain peaks, including Rattlesnake

Mountain and "Hospital Rock," "where smallpox once was isolated." On the right is an area where "ye mastodon grazed and left his bones 1000 years and more ago." Avon College appears at the very top of the map. Most of the drawings have labels identifying them.

Dimensions Primary Dimensions (image height x width): 12 1/8 x 10 1/2in. (30.8 x 26.7cm) Sheet (height x width): 12 1/8 x 10 1/2in. (30.8 x 26.7cm)