

A hand-colored map of the Pacific Northwest coast, showing the coastline, major cities like Seattle, Tacoma, and Portland, and the surrounding mountains and forests. The map is oriented vertically on the page.

Basic Detail Report

Title Norwich, circa 1830: A Boyish Remembrance

Date after 1872

Primary Maker Donald Grant Mitchell

Medium Photomechanical prints; heliotype on paper

Description Map of Norwich, Connecticut, with "Up-Town Plain" to the north, a stand of trees to the east, the Thames and Shetucket rivers to the south, and Yantic Cove to the west. The names of villages and physical features such as hills and rivers, and local roads with red squares on them indicating residences, public buildings and businesses are marked on the map in red. Notable landmarks include "an interloping r.r. of late date," "No-Mans Acre," "Savin-Hill," and "Chelsea Landing." Elevation is conveyed with hachure marks.

Basic Detail Report

Dimensions Primary Dimensions (image height x width): 20 13/16 x 6 1/8in. (52.9

x 15.6cm) Sheet (height x width): 25 3/4 x 9 7/16in. (65.4 x 24cm)