Description Map of Jewett City, Hopevile, and the surrounding area. The Quinebaug River and the tracks of the New York and New England Railroad are to the west. A road leading northeast towards Giles Pond is to the north. Four Corners and the property of Daniel Giles are to the east. The Pachaug River is to the south, running between the villages of Jewett City and Hopeville. Various structures are identified, including Ashland Mills, Slater Mills, a Catholic church, a depot, a hotel, and a machine shop in Jewett City; a creamery and an ice house on the east-running road; a blacksmith shop and a school in Hopeville; and a sawmill at Giles Pond. A dotted line may indicate a water main runs from Ashland Pond towards Hopeville, parallel to the road. An inscription reads "Sta. 210 + 30 on new line leading main." An arrow points north. Various calculations are at lower right.;
