Description Map of Connecticut with Long Island and the eastern portion of New York State, and the western portion of Rhode Island. The borders of all three states are colored dark pink, but only Connecticut's counties are colored (pink, blue, yellow and green). The names of the states' counties are printed in capital letters. Connecticut is further divided into towns. Cities are represented by open circles for towns and closed circles within circles for county towns. Villages are represented with open circles and are labeled in italics. Railroads and common roads are depicted with different lines. The Long Island; New York and Harlem;
