

Basic Detail Report

Title Telephones and Buildings

Date after 1966

Primary Maker Richard Welling

Medium Drawing; black ink and pencil on paper

Description Drawing of different kinds of telephones (rotary dial, candlestick, and push-button in a number of different designs), various buildings that are related to Western Electric and other communications corporations, and six vehicles, three of them emblazoned with the Western Electric name. The building on the left in the center is the former AT&T headquarters at 195 Broadway in Manhattan, with the statue "The Genius of Electricity" on top. In the center is the Hawthorne Works building in Cicero, Illinois. The building in the top right of the center sheet is the former New York Telephone Company Building (now the Verizon Building) at 140 West Street in Manhattan.

Dimensions Sheet (height x width): 16 5/8 x 25 5/8in. (42.2 x 65.1cm)