Title Soldiers with the 3rd Regiment, Company E

Date 1894-1898

Medium photographic prints on board

Description (.1) Four men sit in front of opened tent. They are dressed in uniforms with forage-type caps, and their gear can be seen hanging at the back of the tent. Other tents are visible in the background. They all wear what appear to be white neckerchiefs. These could be men serving with the Connecticut National Guard, 3rd Regiment, Company E. (.2) The same four men stand in front of their tent holding their rifles. The man on the left wears an officer's chevron on his sleeve. (.3) A close-up of three men in front of their tent. The center man is sitting, the other two are standing. The second man from the left wears an officer's chevron on his sleeve. A mattress can be seen on the floor of the tent. (.4) Group photograph of soldiers wearing slouch or campaign hats, possibly with puttees above their boots. There is a pyramid of rifles draped with bandoliers at the left, and a similar pyramid with only 3 rifles in the background to the right. Two seated men have officer bars on their sleeves.
